CORPORATION TAX NOW CONSIDERED BY HOUSE GROUP

Measure Would Place Heavy Leavy on Corporations and Partnerships.

SCHOOL MEASURE PASSES

Calendar Carries 115 Bills
When House Goes Into Session.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15.—The house committee on revenue and taxation is considering an income tax to be levied on corporations and partnerships and definite action was expected to be taken by noon.

At yesterday's session the house passed the house bill appropriating $915,000 to aid the common schools and the measure recently introduced providing for the rehabilitation of the state banking system considered, while the senate spent most of the day considering a dog tax bill.

Another school aid bill by Johnson of Pushmataha, was made special order for Monday. It would levy upon the property of certain public service corporations special taxes for maintaining common schools.

The calendar carried 115 bills when the house went into session this afternoon. The sub-committee of the house appropriations committee is expected to report soon on the probable amount of revenue for the state for the next two years.

Explain Taxation Problem.
Is the Ninth legislature going to kill the goose that lays the golden egg for Oklahoma?

Okla. City business men were asking themselves that question Wednesday night when it became known that the house committee on revenue and taxation would meet at 9 o'clock Thursday morning to consider house bill 29 by James C. Nance, Stephens, and J. B. Harper, LeFlore, the bill levying an income tax on all corporations, partnerships and associations.

Push Refineries Out.

This bill, it is predicted would push the great oil refineries of the state over the line into Kansas and Texas. But it would also go farther. The bill is no respecter of persons and it would drive thousands of small business men to withdraw from their corporations and partnerships, and even to the wall, it is declared.

An example apropos to the situation was cited by a city business man to show how such a law would work a rank injustice upon the small grocer, butcher or restaurant keeper.

For instance, a man might conduct a small store from which he would derive a net income of $5,000. If married and supporting two children in school he would be exempted as an individual under the existing law.

Partnership Discriminations.

Yet, lacking capital, should this same man enter into partnership with a second person in the same business the $5,000 to be divided between the two at the end of the year would be subject to a tax! The two men, working as partners, would be compelled to pay $37.50 on the $5,000 net. Working singly, making as much each as both might make together under the partnership, and with the exemptions cited above, neither would pay one cent income tax!

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15.—Protests against the bill of the lower house to levy an income tax on corporations, partnerships and associations were made by more than 50 oil men, corporation attorneys and business men here today at a hearing before the house committee on revenue and taxation.

Harry Smith, president of the Mid Continent Oil Co., declared that oil producers are not in a condition to face additional taxation. Oil producers, he said, unlike other business men, cannot pass the tax on to the ultimate consumer.

OKLAHOMA ATTORNEYS ON

RATE CASE AT WASHINGTON

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15.—E. R. Hughes, member of the state corporation commission and E. S. Ratliff, attorney for the commission, left today for Washington where they will appear Monday before the United States supreme court in connection with the hearing of the gas rate cases. The case was appealed from the corporation commission by the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co., the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Co., and the Muskogee Gas and Electric Co.

Presidential Boom Not Worrying McAdoo, Wintering at Augusta

Mr. and Mrs. William G. McAdoo are among the prominent guests at the new fire proof Bon Air Vanderbilt Hotel, the new southern mecca which society has discovered at Augusta, Ga. Friends of Mr. McAdoo, the former secretary of the Treasury, are endeavoring to groom him as the democratic presidential candidate.

OIL PRODUCTION HERE UNCERTAIN

Carter-Lowery Well May Be Deepened if Production Light, Rumored.

The Carter-Lowery well in section 32-5-5 is still more or less problematical so far as actual production is concerned. The two shots have been cleaned out, and the indications are promising. The actual production cannot be determined until the well is tested out over a period of time. The oil men generally are feeling optimistic over the outlook for a good producer.

While Mr. Carter could not be found to verify or deny the rumor, it is talked that the hole may be deepened in case the production does not show up surprisingly well. It is pointed out that the hole can be deepened to the next line or oil sand underlying the next line without ruining the production from the present depth. There may be nothing to the rumor.

Regardless, however, of the value of the present well, apparently Ada is no wand is to continue for some time in the center of oil activity which may ripen almost any time into a full-fledged boom.

Committee Reports Norman Solon Asks Release of Negro

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15.—J. B. Phillips of Norman was the house member who asked Senator Clark Nichols to use his influence to secure the release under guard of Xenophon Jones, according to Paul Stewart, chairman of the investigating committee. Stewart said that this was developed at the morning session of the committee.

According to Stewart, Phillips testified that he had cited on the request of a man by the name of French.

Campbell Russell, former chairman of the corporation commission, and several newspaper men were summoned to appear before the committee this afternoon. Russell is covering the legislature for a local newspaper.

Grounded Off Coast of Vancouver.

(By the Associated Press)

SEATTLE, Feb. 15.—A coast guard cutter has taken all the members of the crew from the steamer Nikah, which was burned to the water's edge. This information was contained in a message from the commander. No details were given of the position of the ship.

The steamer Kewanee reported by wireless that a ship supposed to be the wooden steamer Nikah was evidently on fire near Cape Flattery. The glare of the flames could be seen plainly, according to a message received at a station in Everett.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—The British steamer Tuscan Prince is on the rocks in an unknown position between Seattle and here and is breaking up, according to a wireless message received here.

SEATTLE, Feb. 15.—A number of lives are believed to have been lost early today when the British steamer Tuscan Prince went ashore on Vancouver Island, according to a message received from the tug Sea Monarch. The Sea Monarch was rushing to the aid of the vessel which was believed a total loss. The message gave no other details.

Rising Temperature Expected in State, Weather Man Claims

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 15.—Last night the shifting of the high pressure which moved through Oklahoma from the Northwest caused the temperature to moderate and remain higher than had been expected, according to the weather bureau today. The mercury ranged from 6 to 16 above zero in the north part of the state and 16 to 28 in the southern portion. The temperature here at 7 a. m. today was 16 while at Muskogee it was 21.

Gradually rising temperature throughout the state was expected while temperature tonight are expected to range from 10 to 18 in the north and 18 to 26 in the south.

ARMOUR PACKING PLANT AT OMAHA LOST IN FLAMES

Property Loss Estimated at Two Million Dollars by Company.

FIRE STILL RAGING

Fire Fighters Hindered by Zero Weather After Blaze Gets Headway.

(By the Associated Press)

OMAHA, Nebr., Feb. 15.—A fire which is estimated to have already caused the loss of $2,000,000 to Armour & Co.'s South Omaha plant was still burning fiercely today with firemen making every effort to confine the blaze to the three nine-story buildings Nos. 17, 18 and 19 already wrecked beyond all hopes.

Other structures, Nos. 20 and 21, including the oil refinery, are seriously threatened. More than 1,000 workers will be out of employment temporarily as a result of the fire.

The fire is declared to be the most disastrous in the history of the packing industry. It was discovered early yesterday. Twenty-one fire companies are endeavoring to prevent the other structures from being caught. They are centering their efforts on the fire walls of building No. 30. If the walls hold the blaze will be confined within buildings 17 and 18, but if it collapses the fire may get beyond control.

O. C. Williams, general manager of the plant, declared last night that the fire started in the 9th story of building No. 19 from a defective elevator motor.

Firemen Hindered

When the firemen reached the scene they experienced great difficulty in making headway because of the sub zero temperature which quickly turned the water into ice, covering everything with a sheet of ice. The fire is said to be the most spectacular in the history of Omaha. The firemen became encased in coats of ice and some of them literally froze to the nozzles of the fire hoses. Assistant Fire Chief Denison was thrown eight feet into the air by the explosion of an ammonia tank and eight others were injured.

Melting lard in one of the buildings served to feed the flames and added to the difficulty in holding the fire in control.

REED PUTS FOOT ON DEBT ACTION

Missouri Senator Says Debt
Proposition is Sugar-Coated.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Objection by Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, blocked the agreement of senate leaders of both parties for an early vote on the British debt funding bill. The haste with which the bill was being considered is understood to have been the reason assigned for Reed's action.

With unlimited debate in order Reed launched into an attack on the debt funding agreement in which he said it looked like somebody was trying to sell a gold brick and was in a hurry to dispose of it before being found out.

"This thing is sugar coated," he continued, "as the game is being played we are the pitcher and the British the catcher and England never muffs a ball. It would save the financiers of Great Britain one billion dollars and deliver us bound hand and foot to the British government."

This statement evoked applause from a woman in the gallery and Vice-President Coolidge rapped for order.

KETCH TO SHOW HAMON ESTATE NOW INSOLVENT

(By the Associated Press)

ARDMORE, Feb. 15.—That the estate of the late Jake Hamon is insolvent to the amount of half a million dollars will be shown in a report by Frank Ketch which will be presented this afternoon at a hearing in which he asks to be relieved as administrator of the estate. Judge Winfrey announced this afternoon.

FRENCH COURTS-MARTIAL AND STIFF FINES FAIL TO END GERMAN 'PASSIVE RESISTANCE'

Present indications are that the French policy of prosecuting the wealthiest and most powerful industrial leaders of Germany has failed to win the sympathy of the workers in the Ruhr. Clefe, Thyssen, Kesten, Lengemann, Weisenhoefer and Spindler have been tried and fined for obstructing production, but the passive policy has continued without letup and workers and employers seem to be united as never before.

OIL PRODUCTION SHOWS DECREASE DURING WEEK

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The daily average gross production of crude oil in the United States decreased 27,600 barrels during the week ending February 10, totaling 1,719,600 barrels as compared with 1,747,200 barrels the week previous, according to the report of the American Petroleum Institute made public today.

Bartlesville to be World's Largest Oil Experiment Station

(By the Associated Press)

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Feb. 15.—Bartlesville is to be the center of the world's largest oil experiment station, according to an announcement today by the head of the experiment station here. He said that orders had been issued by the bureau of mines at Washington that all heads of departments chemists and others in the experiment work should make their home at Bartlesville and make this the headquarters for their work.

The Bartlesville experiment station is said to have asked the Oklahoma legislature for an appropriation of $45,000 to erect an additional building in connection with the local station.

While the material for the construction of the line is already on the grounds, no construction has been started yet.

Towns on the proposed high line will receive their power service from the Byng plant.

The proposed high line will be one of the largest projects of its kind in the state.

The order of the Rainbow will meet this evening at 7:30 at the Masonic Hall. All members are requested to be present.—Ramona Knott, Sec'y.

FRENCH DISARM GERMAN POLICE AFTER OUTBREAK

British May Call Commission to Discuss Problems of Reparation.

COAL FAMINE THREATENS

British May Remove Forces
From Rhine if Peace
Plans Fail.

(By the Associated Press)

DUSSELDORF, Feb. 15.—One thousand German police throughout the Ruhr are to be disarmed by order of Gen. DeGoutte. It was explained at French headquarters that this action was deemed advisable because of the general attitude taken by the police towards the forces of occupation. In addition to the recent incidents resulting in clashes, the French consider that the police are inclined to use their arms too freely, especially when they get into disputes with French soldiers. It is also said that one member of the force was caught in the act of setting fire to a house occupied by French soldiers.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—American and other neutral observers in a position to know the facts about the fuel situation, declare that in the struggle between France and Germany coal stocks will probably reach the vanishing point in April and Germany brought to terms by fuel starvation.

ESSEN, Feb. 15.—In the opinion of Ruhr industrialists unemployment will soon become a problem confronting both the French and Germans. In a number of plants there is enough repair work to occupy the crews for sometime, but the outlook after that is rather dark and uncertain, made more so by the customs restrictions on exports made by the French authorities.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Asquithian and Lloyd-George Liberals urge that the League of Nations appoint a commission on which the United States should be asked to have a representative to study to what extent Germany may be expected to meet her obligation. This proposition is to come before the house of commons next Monday in form of an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—British and French ministers met here today in a conference which if it fails to evolve a program for British agreement with France and Belgium in the Ruhr question, may mean the early withdrawal of British troops from the Cologne area.

British ministers in attendance were Premier Bonar Law, Lord Curzon, minister for foreign affairs, and the Earl of Derby, secretary for war. The French cabinet was represented by M. Le Troquet, minister of public works.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 15.—German treasury bills issued in connection with the payment of an installment of reparations to Belgium were met today when they fell due.

Two others are in a serious condition and three more less serious.

Eva Eleanor Lowe, 8; Eugenia Burt, 14; Mabel Hickman, 16; Dorothy Cheshire, 17, have died from the results of the burns they received.

NEW STEAMSHIPS LAUNCHED AT GREAT LAKES STATIONS

(By the Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—Nine 600-foot steamers for the Great Lakes trade are now being built here. Two of the boats have already been launched and a third will go into the water within a short time.

Most of the boats will be ready to go into commission by the opening of navigation this spring. The trip capacity of the nine boats will move more than two million tons of freight a season.

SINCE THEN.

Terrors and inhumanities of the past may serve as measures of the depth of the abyss from which the human race has climbed. By the contrary token, they show the heights it has scaled.

Much of the ascent in short time, too, as history goes. A hundred years, or a couple of hundred years, is but a minute on the clock dial of the ages and cycles.

A document, dated 1689, was recently found in Poland. It described an execution. After death, the body of the man executed was burned, his ashes were put into a cannon and shot into the air toward Tartary. This was an event not unusual in those days.

It is only 133 years since counterfeiters were considered guilty of treason and often burned alive in England. This law was repealed in 1790.

A heart-rending instance was a little girl, only 14, sentenced to be burned at the stake in 1782. The house of commons vehemently debated her fate. At last she was pardoned, the fagots had been piled up for the fire.

She had been convicted of concealing counterfeiters' dies inside her corset, at the command of her employer.

Executions for witchcraft were common in the old days, 3,000 so-called witches being "put away" in England during the long parliament.

As late as 1716 Mrs. Hicks and her 9-year-old daughter were hanged at Huntington for "selling their souls to the devil and raising a storm by pulling off their stockings and making a lather of soap."

The authority, Barrington, estimated that 30,000 persons were executed in England on witchcraft charges.

It's a dire past that we have come out of. We're not entirely out yet. But compare modern times with those old days, and no argument is needed that we're getting better.

Progress is certain, and victory assured.—Buffalo Times.

The prospect for a creamery at Ada is now very bright. The Southern Ice and Utilities Company has been ready for some time to install a creamery, only asking to be assured that there is a sufficient number of cows to supply the cream needed in its operation. The way the Chamber of Commerce took hold of the proposition of aiding the farmers to get the cows should assure the success of the enterprise. During the past year the cream business of Pontotoc county has gained considerable headway and with a creamery right here at home it should be even better. Cream checks come in all the year around while crops come in but once. With a steady flow of cream checks to meet current expenses the farmers will not be forced to spend the proceeds of their crops before they are made. There is no fortune to be made in the cream business, but as we heard one farmer express it, his checks kept him from having to make notes at the bank, even though they did not increase his deposits much.

Could Edgar Allen Poe return to earth he would have to rewrite his poem on the bells. Instead of bells on the vehicles we have the horns that honk in warning. Instead of the iron fire alarm bells, we have the screeching siren. The bells that chimed in the church steeples are no longer fashionable so if Poe came back he would not hear the clanging, chiming and tinkling of the bells which he immortalized in his musical poem. About the only bells he would hear would be on the street cars as they clang out a warning of their approach and he knew nothing of that sort of bell when he was on earth before.

Thirteen years of Boy Scout work have gone, and the movement to make men out of boys is growing faster now than ever before. The time to make a man is while he is yet a boy. The Lions Club of Ada is to be congratulated for making the Boy Scout work here possible, and we believe that it is the best investment the Lions could have made. Honorable, upright, Christian men and women are the only men and women worth while and they are worth the world and all the fullness thereof.

The News is in receipt of a seven page typewritten article from some bureau or other at Hollywood, California, condemning bobbed hair. Looks like making a mountain out of a molehill and to publish the article would mean taking up the better part of a page of this paper. The question of bobbed hair is not bothering the News, so the manuscript is now reposing snugly at the bottom of the wastebasket. Let 'em bob their hair if they want to; it's none of our business.

An exchange says that a sermon at Mangum on the subject of the gossip in that town drew a full house last Sunday. No doubt every individual of the crowd expected to hear some one else lambasted but it is not to be supposed that many thought they had anything coming for themselves. It is the faults of the other fellow that people want to hear about.

A judge in New York sent a witness to jail for 60 days for calling a bullying lawyer a liar. Evidently that judge did not think turn about was fair play.

IS THE BEAR ONLY A DISINTERESTED SPECTATOR?

The Fort of the Press

Vice President's Home
(New Orleans Times Picayune)

According to correspondents, congress very likely will accept the offer by Mrs. John B. Henderson, of Washington of a half million dollar residence for the vice president of the United States. Hitherto our vice presidents have arranged personally for their living quarters, usually in one of the hotels. And while they may get exceptionally "reduced rates" in exchange for the favorable publicity gained by having the place known as an official residence, the financial strain is said to be too great for a salary of $12,000 a year already stretched to the limit in other directions.

The home offered by Mrs. Henderson would be received by the government as a straight donation, it being the generous woman's idea that the vice president of the land should have accommodations more in keeping with his high position. Such a residence should meet many of the social and state exactions more satisfactorily than the best hotel accommodations.

But the principal point urged in support of a bill authorizing acceptance of Mrs. Henderson's offer is that the job of vice president of the United States is a money-lending proposition; that the salary of $12,000 a year is not at all adequate. The complaint has been made before. Roosevelt is said to have spent while vice president much more than the job paid, while Marshall made no secret of the fact that he had to go on lecture trips during recesses in order to make ends meet.

Cabinet officers have felt the same way at times. McAdoo, we recall, gave as one of his reasons for resigning the inadequacy of his $12,000 a year in such an expensive city as Washington. It might be argued that if the vice president is to have free housing the various cabinet secretaries should also be thus provided. However, no one has yet offered to donate homes for these dignitaries. Their cases may be taken up when other Mrs. Hendersons appear on the scene. Just now the question is as to whether the nation should accept or reject a valuable piece of property for the use of the vice-president. Why should the offer be turned down?

Good Government in Virginia
(Kansas City Journal)

Governor E. Lee Trinkle's account of the Virginia budget system, printed in The Journal-Post Sunday, shows that obsolete and cumbersome methods of administration may be abolished very easily if there is a sincere desire to do so. This far-reaching reform is the financial administration of Virginia's state affairs ought to be studied by every official whose responsibilities include the expenditure of public money.

The budget principle is the only way out of financial chaos, toward which the local government of Kansas City is headed. It ought to be employed, if only as a policy of good business, wherever money is collected by taxation and disbursed by appropriation. It applies alike to city, county, state and federal administration.

The appropriations for the 1920-22 biennium in Virginia, compared with the original departmental and institutional requests, represented a clear saving of more than $3,000,000. Notwithstanding this, there was a net increase of $1,000,000 for education. The appropriation bill in its final form carried liberal increase for pensions, road, agriculture and operating requirements of state institutions. All this came about without an increase in taxation and $3,000,000 saved besides.

The Virginia budget system, which is of the "executive" type, makes the governor responsible for the recommendations of appropriations, without destroying the legislature's right to determine the size of the appropriations or to have the last word in expenditure of the state's money.

The principle is one of cooperation between the executive and the legislature, in which honest attempts are made to determine the most feasible appropriations. The provinces of these two branches are defined clearly, so that the failure of one in its obligations to the state cannot be concealed.

Every element in the American system of government ought to be equipped with this system. However, since the financial importance of the city and federal government is more important than the state, the taxpayer is more interested in the installation of business methods in the former two. A federal budget has been enacted with results that are well known. The local government of Kansas City does not operate under a budget system, with results that also are well known.

There can never be genuinely good government so long as the public tolerates methods of financial administration which would lead a private enterprise to bankruptcy.

REPORT MADE ON WORK OF CHURCH

Philadelphia Pastor Lends
Views on Evangelization
Among Young.

(By the Associated Press)
TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 15.—Dr. Harold Mc A. Robinson, of Philadelphia, Pa., general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath School work, today reported as chairman of the Committee of Christian Education in the Home, Church and Community, to the annual meeting of the Western (American) Section of the Alliance of Reformed Churches throughout the world holding the presbyterian system. Dr. Robinson's report was in part as follows:

"It is said that no one gets a new idea after he is 25 years old. It is not true. But there is too much truth in it. The time to evangelize and to educate is before the evil days come when there is not pleasure in the things of the spirit. The Presbyterian and Reformed Churches have an opportunity now such as they have not had since the epochal days when the church in America adopted the Sunday school, to work out a comprehensive and effective system of Christian education in the home, church and community.

"There are two outstanding developments in this general field. The first is the rediscovery of the Christian home. We have been complaining about the condition of the family religion for years. Now we are preparing to raise Christian education in the family to its rightful place in the church's program and to provide adequate assistance for fathers and mothers in the discharge of their direct and inescapable responsibility for the Christian nurture of their own children.

"The other outstanding development is the movement to bring together into one program the existing agencies and the rapidly growing new agencies in the church—the Sunday school, the expressional societies such as Christian Endeavor, the specialized boys' and girls' clubs, the Daily Vacation Bible Schools, the week-day schools for religious instruction. Such a program, with adequate educational standards, under the blessing of God will be one of the greatest achievements of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches in this century."

From 191 to 1920 Canada received 1,318,469 settlers from the United States.

IS GLAD HE TOOK PASTOR'S ADVICE

Led to Take Tanlac, Hambright Declares It Ended Indigestion And he Gained 31 Pounds.

"Tanlac made a new man of me when I was worn to a frazzle, and if there's anything I can do to put this medicine in the hands of other sufferers, I stand ready to do it." This emphatic statement was made recently by G. P. Hambright, well known resident of King's Mountain, N. C.

"I had about lost faith in everything when I saw Tanlac highly recommended by a preacher, so I decided to try it. Now I am satisfied it did me as much good as it did him, or more. When I started I only weighed a hundred and fifty-five pounds, and now I weigh a hundred and eighty-six. I eat three hearty meals a day, my nerves are steady as a rock, and I can sleep like a log. Tanlac gets the best words I can give it every time."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.—Adv.

Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itch-application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleas-

Figured Cretonne With Cream Linen Trimming

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

A dress of attractive material,
both as regards color and design,
and admirably qualified for service, is sure to please, especially when in so modish a style.

The cretonne may be bright or subdued, but the range of designs and colorings from which to choose give almost a guarantee of becomingness.

Cretonne lends itself so perfectly to machine sewing that a little dress as simple as this may be developed in short order.

The dress is cut as a one-piece with set-in sleeves, and the arrangement of the belt is so accomplished as to give the appearance of a sewed-on skirt. A tucked bib and a jaunty little collar and cuffs of cream linen make the dress complete.

If colored linen is used for bib, collar, and cuffs, then it should also be used for the bloomers.

THE HONEYMOON

By ADELAIDE R. KEMP

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Hello, little boy; what's your name?" Shirley straightened from her wedding and looked at the lad standing by the fence.

"William Theodore Curtis, Jr.," was the dignified response.

"I suppose you must belong to the folks just moved in the big house on the hill, William?"

"You needn't call me William if you don't want to," said the boy, taking a jack-knife out of his pocket and whittling a willow stick he was holding. "Nobody calls me that except the teacher. I'm Billy to most folks."

"Well, then, Billy," Shirley came nearer and looked intently at the small face with its freckle-powdered nose—"I wonder whether you have anyone related to you named Thomas Curtis?"

"You probably mean my Uncle Tom.
He's down in Panama." Billy, with his whistle nearly completed, did not notice the color that came with a blinding rush to Shirley's face. "Do you know," he continued, "what a honeymoon couple is?"

For a moment Shirley was taken blankly by surprise.

"Well," she answered slowly, "a honeymoon couple are two very happy people, generally, on their wedding trip. What made you ask that, Billy?"

"Oh, nothing much. I was just kind of wondering. When Dad read Uncle Tom's last letter he laughed and said he didn't know what he'd do with a honeymoon couple. You know, Uncle Tom's coming home in a week or two."

Shirley looked as if she had received a blow. Billy, bidding her good-by, started down the road, his whistle sounding shrilly.

Such a slight misunderstanding had sent Tom Curtis to Panama and lost to her all chances of happiness.

For Shirley the following weeks were trying ones. She and Billy became fast friends, but she dreaded the day when he would tell her Tom and his bride had arrived. William Theodore Curtis, Jr., in his characteristic manner, abruptly ended her suspense late one afternoon as he met her returning from the post office.

"They've come," he shouted, when he was within calling distance.
"They're what you said they were and dad says she's pretty nifty."

Shirley stopped short and sat down rather quickly on a convenient rock.
"Well, Billy," she said, trying to regain her composure, "I suppose you won't have time to fish for a while."

"Oh, yes, I will," exclaimed the lad quickly. "All they want to do is to sit in the hammock or dance to the old phonograph. They don't pay any attention to me. They did say," he added, "that we might go on a picnic next Saturday in our car. I wish you might come, too."

Shirley smiled rather forlornly. "It's my own fault that I can't," she said, whimically.

Late Saturday, walking through the village, she passed a group of people talking excitedly. Fragments of their conversation made her pause suddenly.
"The young married couple were taken to the hospital, terribly hurt." "Yes, Curtis' big car—they'd been on a picnic somewhere."

Shirley hurried on. Her whole being seemed permeated with the tragedy that had entered her life. Down the road came the hum of a big car. It came up, but did not pass her, and somebody jumped out and clasped her in a pair of strong arms. She looked up with a white face and clutched her owner convulsively.

"Oh, Tom, Tom!" was all she could say. Everything had been clean-swept from her mind except the outstanding fact that he was there. Tom was returning the clutch with interest.

"Shirley," he said, "what luck! I've been up to town every day since I came, doing regular detective work.
Your house was closed, your folks gone, and nobody knew where you were except in the country somewhere for your health."

To Shirley suddenly came the reason for her run-down state and shattered nerves. She tried to draw herself away, but it was useless.

"Tom, you mustn't. You're married, you know. And I thought you and your little wife were in the hospital."

Tom sat down on the running-board of the car, but he did not let go his hold of Shirley. "Now, Shirley Dinamore, will you kindly tell me where your wires are crossed?"

Shirley felt ready to cry when the realization that all the joy of meeting Tom must end at once. "I've just heard about the accident today, and Billy told me you were on your honeymoon," she said.

A light of understanding appeared on Tom's face. "Well, I'll be jiggered," he said. "Shirley, did you think I could forget like that? My cousin Dick and his wife came with me on their honeymoon. Billy probably didn't take the trouble to mention any names. They were in an accident today, but, thank goodness, not so serious as reported."

"Honey-moon!" Tom lifted her face, from which a great shadow had vanished. "You just bet I'm going on my honeymoon—the minute you'll join the party."

Around the front of the car appeared William Theodore Curtis, Jr.
"Uncle Tom, I've just heard what you said. Once you told me the moon was made of green cheese; now I suppose you'll try to make me believe it's made of honey."

"big town" appearance when em-being removed from the entire

the Katy depot to the Santa Fe

The cables have been laid in the alleys back of Main street for more than a year, but not until recently have merchants changed their elec-

MUSEUM SEARCHERS NOW

LONDON—"Searchers" at the British Museum made comfortable livings before the war, but nowadays when it is not so easy for the wealthy to indulge their hobbies of investigation, they are hav-

These "searchers," a small body of highly trained men, were familiar with the vast collection of books and records within the museum, and acted as literary detec-

Resignation of Forbes in Hands of Pres. Harding

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The resignation of Col. Charles H. Forbes, director of Veterans' Bureau, is now in the hands of President Harding.

The president is understood to have under consideration for appointment to fill the vacancy three former overseas veterans. It was said today. At the same time, however, it was indicated that the successor to Col. Forbes may not be appointed immediately, and that he might resume his duties temporarily on his return from Europe where he has been spending his vacation.

Italian Pleased in Mussolini Methods
of Running Affairs

(By the Associated Press)
ROME—"It's a real government" is the way the average Italian sums up his opinion of the new administration of Premier Mussolini.

While he may not be of Fascist inclination, yet after recounting the many vicissitudes which the various Italian governments have suffered since the armistice, the Italian on the street complacently goes to his tasks and rejoices that, at last,
there is one government in power which has a policy, and is free from bartering and maneuvering for votes in Parliament in order to hold its own.

The bold front which Premier Mussolini and his cabinet have presented in facing the problem of reducing the cumbersome bureaucracy of the state, with its army of state employees, has found jousous acceptance in the minds of the ordinary toiler, who sees therein a chance for the reduction of the heavy taxes which now weigh on all classes. And when accounts are read in the newspapers of the long and arduous cabinet meetings, with efforts to reform all the departments of government, the general comment is, "after all, it is a government."

Protestant Churches

to Draw Own Statutes

WARSAW.—The Protestant churches of Poland have been authorized by the government under the Polish government to draw up their own statutes covering the administration of the church. Under this decision a Protestant synod was summoned and has been sitting for some time.

Due to the fact that there are great differences of opinion between the German and the Polish Protestants, it was suggested that two Protestant churches be formed, but the synod decided to defer the discussion of all questions in dispute and this among them which a compromise appeared possible.

The last session of the synod was

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's
Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because its nutlike flavor appeals to the taste. And, think what each mouthful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to re-establish health! That's because it is ALL BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AS NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive.
Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—
Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, crumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try raisin bread or muffins or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals.
Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lamb, at Jervaux abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lamb, Almee, the vain daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, is in a rebellious mood.

CHAPTER II.—She wanders into the park, there encountering a strange youth in trouble with a motorcycle. He laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two cement the acquaintance by a ride on the motorcycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgia, her cousin, Almee sets out for Jervaux. On the way she decides that Georgia shall impersonate her at Jervaux while she goes on a holiday. Georgia's horrified protest is unavailing.

CHAPTER III.—Happy in her new freedom, Almee again meets "Billy." He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives hers as Amy Snooks, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy cottage.

CHAPTER IV.—That night Almee visits Georgia, and learns that the deception has not been discovered. By her dominant personality she compels Georgia to continue the subterfuge.

Passenger Service on Mississippi to be Resumed by Boats

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 15.—When passenger service on the Mississippi is resumed between St. Paul, Minn., and St. Louis, June 1, next, it will be the first time in about seven years that direct passenger river service will be available between these points, according to A. D. Franz, general manager of the Mississippi and Ohio Steamboat Co., which will renew the service.

Mr. Franz explained that shipping by water was returning and that under the present plans his company would have freight carries plying the river from St. Paul to New Orleans.

"We shall begin by carrying passengers only," Mr. Franz said, "and later we shall take freight on boats constructed especially for freight haulers. There is every indication that we will meet with success from the start, as it generally is conceded that both passengers and freight can be handled by water for about 35 per cent less than by rail.

"When expanding our service to include freight, we expect to make agreements with railroads for interchanging freight along the route. We plan to have tracked docks so freight cars can be pulled aboard our boats to be unloaded and reloaded. Several railroads already have given us favorable expressions on the suggestion."

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains or Kidneys Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forces acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weak; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

flowers and greening thorn-hedge. Almee stood and drank it in thankfully, till she realized with a shock that it was past ten.

The only bath available at Ivy cottage was a tub of spring water. Almee made the most of this, and, dressing hurriedly, came downstairs glowing like a picotee. Billy was in the parlor.

"Morning!" he cried. "Have you been down long?" exclaimed Almee.

"Bout three hours!" he chuckled. "I've covered sixty miles since then. Just a little breather."

"Why—you haven't waited breakfast for me, have you?" she cried. "Oh, that's all right. Rang a baker up 'n' got a roll 'n' milk at Syderford. Nothing done yet—couldn't breakfast without my partner."

Mrs. Sunning, with bare, dimpled arms and her face wreathed in smiles, brought in the breakfast. There were brown ducks' eggs, cream, water-cresses and a brace of brook trout.

Billy glanced at his companion from time to time, with a quiet watchfulness. "Sleep all right, old chap?" he asked presently.

"Rather. Didn't wake up till just now," said Almee, taking a large spoonful of comb honey. "Did you?" Billy paused.

"Middling," he said slowly. "Say, partner, what'd you like to do now? Rest a bit?"

"Rest!" said Almee scornfully. "I want to live, not rest!" "Ready to get busy on the Sphinx, 'n' cleave the ether?"

"Yes, right away." "Good! I'll get her fixed." Twenty minutes later they met by the shed where the Sphinx was stored. As Billy wheeled the machine out, he looked keenly into Almee's eyes.

"Partner," he asked, "you haven't anything on your mind, have you?" Almee laughed aloud. Her eyes sparkled.

"Do I look as if I had?" "No, by the Great Horn Spoon, you don't!" said Billy, eyeing her with a flash of admiration. "You look as if you'd face the world and laugh at everything it handed you—from a bunch of roses to sudden death. You're IT! Come on."

They went out through the little gate. Billy did not offer to mount the Sphinx till they were clear of the lane. When he stopped, Almee observed for the first time that the Sphinx had a brand-new spring pillion-seat clamped to the carrier.

"What's this for?" exclaimed Almee. "Why, for you, old chap. Easier riding."

"I didn't need it, Billy. The carrier was good enough." "Nope," said Billy with determination, "not nearly good enough. Carrier! You ain't baggage, are you?"

"Don't know. It's what a lot of people have called me." "Who?" said Billy indignantly. "Oh, frumps."

"There's a lot of indiscriminating people about," said her partner abruptly. The Sphinx started, and Billy threaded lanes at an easy pace. The soft wind of the morning caressed them as they rode. Not that it had any pacifying effect on Almee's spirit. The sense of adventure mounted to her head like wine.

"Here we are!" said Billy, turning onto a long, deserted stretch of high road, running delightfully level and straight. He let the Sphinx out. For eighty seconds the hedges flashed by like long green streamers. At the end of a mile and a half Billy stopped and dismounted.

"Now," he said, "we're not going to talk about how to sell the Sphinx yet awhile; the first thing is to put you wise to her. You've got to know her inside out and backwards—and she's the sweetest thing that ever burned gas. Now, look here!"

Almee knelt eagerly on the grass, and Billy fluently explained, dismantling the parts as he talked. For twenty minutes she followed him, testing for herself.

"Why," said Billy with delight, stopping and looking at her, "it's like teaching a duck to swim! You catch on quicker than I can show you—you were born to it!"

"I'm an infant to you," said Almee admiringly. "What a head you've got. It's everything a motor engine ought to be but never is. Let's take down the cylinder."

They busied themselves dismantling and re-assembling the engine. "I'll show you how to drive her now," said Billy. "Stationary, till you get the hang of her."

Almee mounted the saddle, while the machine remained on its stand, and Billy showed her how to control the engine running free with the clutch out. She took longer to grasp this. The controls, though simple, were of an unusual type. In ten minutes, however, she mastered them pretty efficiently.

"Fine!" said Billy enthusiastically. "Partner, the Sphinx is your big sister! Now we'll run her on the road—I'll ride the pillion 'n' coach you. But for the land's sake go easy with the throttle. She'll rush you clean off the British isles if you give her any gas."

Almee started dead slow. The ease and resiliency of the drive, once the Sphinx was running, astonished her. Gradually Almee increased speed to fifteen and twenty miles. She was intoxicated by the sense of power, answering to the least touch of her fingers.

"Glorious!" she gasped. "You're doing fine," said Billy, watching keenly. He made her practice stopping and starting, including emergency halts. "Say, isn't she the last word in lady's mounts?" "Rather!" said Almee, in spite of a sense of difficulty with her dress and the Sphinx's tank, low though it was. "Except—I feel as if I were all stockings."

"Shucks! what of it?" he answered impatiently. "There's nobody here to see. Try her on the high gear now." Almee changed gear deftly enough, and for awhile drove steadily. But the intoxication of speed confused her senses. She made the one mistake she had been warned against. The Sphinx dashed forward like a whipper, and, in trying to rectify the error she made it worse.

"Throttle down!" said Billy sharply. Intending to obey, Almee blundered again, and closed down the extra air inlet. The Sphinx roared in protest, and shot ahead like a bullet from a gun. The pace was awful. How the machine kept on the road was a miracle. Every moment promised a de-ing serious."

Almee suddenly sat down on the edge of the ditch and began to laugh. She laughed till the very road threw back the echo; scandalous laughter.

"That's good!" said Billy, grinning. "That's the stuff! I was afraid it might have shaken you. Go on—laugh!"

"You'll never let me drive her again!" gasped Almee, mopping her streaming eyes. "Won't I! Why, you've learned the game—you'll never do that stunt twice. Only thing I feared, it might have shaken your nerve. But you've no nerve to shake! You're the goods. That fool coachman was on the wrong side, anyway. Let's get on the Sphinx. You'll ride her like a bird after this. All the same," he added, "that tank-bar is a bit awkward for your dress."

"I don't care—I can manage." "No—it's got to be fixed." His face cleared. "It's dead easy! I'll get you a pair of breeches in Syderford." Almee, dumfounded, turned and stared at him.

"What do you think you are?" she exclaimed. "The Universal Provider?" Billy's chin stuck out sternly. "I'm your partner! Get me?"

Almee looked at him thoughtfully and smiled. "All right, Billy," she said softly. There was a pause. "Let's go back to Ivy cottage. You can drive."

Billy mounted the saddle joyously, stuffing his cap into his pocket. Almee took her seat behind. The Sphinx meandered homeward at an easy fifty miles an hour.

MANY VETERANS AT GOLF TOURNEY

Over Three Hundred Are Expected to Register for June Tourney.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The golf players who wins the national public links tournament here June 26-27 will take home with him a pennant to be flown over his home course for one year.

Under direction of Lieut. Col. C. O. Sherrill, in charge of government public buildings and grounds, a lot of work has been done on the local course this winter. About three hundred players are expected to register with the United States Golf association for the play.

Local fans look to a half dozen players to keep the pennant in Washington. This half dozen is from five to eight strokes ahead of the field here. Charles Agnew, who won the local championship last year and represented the course at the Toledo tourney, has been getting in two and three days a week at the local course but play on the greens has been under the ban.

George Voight, who was the runner-up at the Columbia Country Club play for the district championship last fall, is one of the players picked by many to lead the team that will represent the nation's capital. To "Bill" McGuire, the long distance hitter of the course many turn in picking a team mate for Agnew and Voight. McGuire has driven the 340-yard No. 1 hole at the course and sends the ball for 260 yards with a good deal of regularity. His short game around the greens has been off and because of the open winter here he has been able to work out at the Columbia Country Club several times a week. He has been paying particular attention to his approaching game this winter and hopes to be right up there when the qualification scores are counted.

Sanford, D'Estes, Bresnahan and Brooks are other players who stand out over the rest of the hundreds who crowd the local course. In this group are players who will have it "on" the visitors to the extent they have been playing the course now for three years.

The event promises to be the most open sort of a proposition since the newspapers printed the statement here that Eddie Held of St. Louis and Albach of Boston would not be in the big national event this year. One, the report said, had turned pro and the other had joined a private club thus barring him from public links competition.

In honor of the national public links tourney being awarded to the course by the U. S. G. A. a sixty foot flag pole has been erected near the home green in front of the club house by Col. Sherrill. On this a big American flag was raised by Col. Henry May and Maj. Edward Riggs who started the first golf club in Washington more than thirty years ago. Beneath this flag will fly the pennant to go to the links that produces the best golf player next June.

Mr. Lamb obeyed, protesting faintly. Georgia, with one hand pressed to her bosom, felt as though she were on the point of heart-failure.

"Hussies," said Lady Erythea, quivering, "and louts! Country's overrun with them. Decency is dead!"

The carriage jingled round the corner and disappeared.

Billy Spencer collected himself from among the brambles and regained the road, with the air of a sailor cast away on an inhospitable coast. Almee thrust an inquiring face through the hedge, and emerged.

"Billy!" she cried. "Are you damaged?" "Not a bit. Only scratched."

"And the Sphinx?"

The summer session will offer 218 courses in regular work and special professional work of various descriptions, with courses designed especially to fit the needs of school teachers who take advantage of the vacation to continue their education. The faculty to handle these 218 courses is composed of 36 professors, instructors and assistants, most of whom are members of the regular school year faculty.

The purpose of the summer school is to offer work in the graduate school leading to masters degrees, work in the college of arts and sciences leading to bachelor degrees, work in the school of education fitting teachers for all the various grades of teachers certificates offered in Oklahoma, work in the school of fine arts leading to degrees in this field, and special courses for librarians and insurance salesmanship.

The first summer session was held in 1911 when 177 students enrolled and last year, 1922, the enrollment reached a total of 2130 students without duplication. Students may register for the 1923 summer session any time after May 23.

Eleven special instructors have been procured for the summer session other than those special instructors who will take charge of the insurance salesmanship classes and other special professional courses offered. They are: Henry M. Armstrong, agricultural counselor of the extension division, special instructor in teachers' agricultural courses; W. H. Bristow, special instructor in psychology courses.

Paul N. Campbell, instructor in education; Lucile Gafford, head of the department of English of Kild-Key College, special instructor in English; Flora B. Hernandez, special instructor in modern languages; J. E. McAtee, community counselor of the extension division, special instructor in sociology; H. C. Allison Reppy, professor of law, special instructor in government; Mabel Smith, community institute nurse, special instructor in school hygiene; Nelle B. Turner, health counselor extension division special instructor in school hygiene; and F. P. Wiggins, medical counselor of extension division, special instructor in physical training.

Special lecture courses have been arranged for which credit will be given. These are planned so that there will be one week devoted to each of the following: public health, child welfare, English, History, fine arts, education and extra-curricular activities.

Admission to the summer school requires graduation from accredited high school or equivalent with the exception of fine arts where students may enroll for private lessons who are not high school graduates.

FREE STATE GOVERNMENT PLANNING NEW REFORMS

DUBLIN.—Undeterred by the recent recrudescence of lawlessness, the Free State Government is proceeding methodically with the ordinary administration of the country, and is even entering upon far reaching projects of reform.

The government's new courts are in operation all over Ireland. In many departments, especially law, the old British government officials have been displaced wholesale and their places taken by new men.

Artificial Wave Making Is Popular On U. S. Liners on the High Seas

Corner of Beauty Parlor on S. S. America.

New York. In these days of social activities on ship board, it is as necessary for women passengers to pay as much attention to their hair as to natural beauty as they do on land, and for that reason several of the steamships of the United States Lines have fully equipped beauty parlors, where the fair passengers may obtain everything from a manicure to the latest in hair dressing.

After a vigorous day on deck engaged in various sports which are apt to derange the coiffure, my lady does not have to fear that she must attend dinner with rumpled and un-waved hair. She may either summon the hair dresser to her stateroom and there have it shampooed and curled, or go to the beauty parlor, where every modern device may be found, secure in the knowledge that no matter in what particular way she may desire to have the work done, it will be accomplished to her complete satisfaction.

No worry about heating curling irons over alcohol stoves. Just push the button and let Marie do it.

And these beauty parlors, passengers on the United States liners have learned, are more than that. Massage treatments and "facials" given by experts have relieved severe headaches and neuralgia attacks that previously resisted all the efforts of the ship's surgeons to cure them. As a result, the women passengers on these vessels are of the opinion that they are as necessary to the operation of the craft as the rudder.

The President Harding, President Roosevelt, America and the George Washington boast beauty parlors that rival any of the most up-to-date establishments of their kind on land, and the attendants are kept busy during the entire trip each way. Being in touch with the latest styles of hair dressing on both sides of the Atlantic, the attendants are considered experts in their line.

But the men are not neglected either. Every steamship carrying passengers nowadays has its barber shop, with one or more chairs, and these are as well patronized by the men as are those conducted for the women.

Though it is generally known that for years these barber shops have existed aboard passenger vessels, it is only very recently that beauty parlors have been installed on the big vessels, and the fact is attracting the attention of tourists. The United States liners which have these shops are extremely popular with women passengers, to whom the innovation is a very pleasing one.

Registrar Reports 5,427 Now Resident Students in University.

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 15—(Special)—Resident enrollment at the University of Oklahoma for the present school year, including the summer session of 1922, duplicates excluded, has reached the largest registration figure for any one year in the history of the institution, George E. Wadsack, assistant registrar, announced Wednesday.

The figures to date on the resident enrollment since the beginning of the 1922 summer session, have reached 5,427, an increase of 25.4 percent over the enrollment figure of 4,329 of last year according to Wadsack.

The resident enrollment figure to date for the regular school year, exclusive of summer school, has reached 3,846. This represents an increase of 11.5 over the 3,326 enrolled during the last regular school year.

The total number of students in attendance this semester is 3,008, Wadsack said. This represents an increase of 295 over the 2,713 enrolled at this time last year.

For the last three years the enrollment for the second semester of a school year has been approximately nine-tenths of the fall semester, Wadsack said. On this basis he estimated that with a few students being enrolled for the first month or so after the second semester begins, the enrollment for this semester should reach approximately 3,075.

POOR GIRL; RICH GOWNS

Both Are Seen in Agnes Ayres' New Film "A Daughter of Luxury." A destitute girl with plenty of gorgeous gowns! The role played by Agnes Ayres in her latest Paramount picture, "A Daughter of Luxury," which will be seen at the McSwain theatre today is that of a girl who is reared in luxury, but whose parents die and leave her penniless. The role of the destitute girl who is forced to make her own way, however, does not mean that Miss Ayres will not wear several gowns in the picture, as one of the principal assets of the character in question is a large wardrobe of fine clothes. Paul Powell directed the production, which is an adaptation by Beulah Marie Dix of the successful play "The Impostor" by Leonard Merrick and Michael Morton. Tom Gallery is leading man.

Resolved: That cold weather is a stimulant to the display of affection.

The affirmative is backed substantially by the Wozencraft brigade. "Suppose that he and she were spending a quiet evening at home and were talking weather, her life and her school career and the slight weakness of the gas pressure is braved and conversation labored on under this difficulty," the affirmative points out.

"As the evening draws on to 9:30 the gas pressure hasn't improved, neither has conversation and finally she discovers that this spot a little nearer the visitor is warmer and consequently moves over while he is discovering the same thing."
